BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT IS EXPLAINED

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., Expounds His Policy Clearly to Saanich Conservative Association

OLD AGE PENSION ISSUE EXPLAINED

Stresses Importance of Marketing in Relation to Agricultural Industry—Need of Survey

DO not believe in pap feeding people on the land any more than anywhere else," said Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., at the annual meeting of the Saanich Conservative Association last evening. He added that he believed that the worst thing in which something could be done, as had been attempted at Ottawa when he was Minister of Agriculture, to find how to help the farmer in ways that were now being neglected.

Dr. Tolmie set out some of the lines along which he believed that a survey could be conducted looking to the improving of conditions for the farmers of the province. If the conservative party came into power, he said, this survey would be the first things that would be put into effect.

As an instance of what might be investigated, he said that there would be an inquiry as to why asparagus, for instance, was being shipped into Toronto from Washington State alongside of this province. He had found that asparagus and rollers from the United States were often to be found on the tables in this province.

There might even be an inquiry along the lines of industrial benefits that could be derived by the province. Industry went hand in hand with agriculture, and the establishment of a productive industrial center was the surest way of aiding arm production in that vicinity.

While he was Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa he had realized that in spite of what had been done in the matter of aiding farming in the way of experience, the establishment and improving stock, yet there was a lot that could be done in the matter of marketing. This was a line along which inquiry in the province could devote attention. There was just as much to be done in the matter of distribution of agricultural products as the establishment of it. This side of the matter would receive attention as soon as the Conservatives came into power.

ADVERTISING
"I am a firm believer in advertising," said Dr. Tolmie. When a convention came to the province he believed that it might be better to give attention more to the advertising of the visitors with the province's possibilities rather than giving too much time to golf balls and highballs.

In the line of education, the leader said that he thought that there could be a good deal done to help out in the province. While he did not want to say anything against the professions, yet it might be better instead of developing educational work along the line of leading for the professions alone to have more attention attracted towards the professions the youth go often found themselves in lines that were overworked and necessary in consequence to go to a foreign country to obtain employment. It would be better to have them trained along lines that required demand.

DATE SET FOR ANNUAL SHOW

Potato and Seed Display Will Form Section of Vancouver Winter Exhibition

WILL BE SIXTH OF SUCH FAIRS

The Provincial Potato and Seed Show will be held this year in conjunction with the Winter show at Hastings Park, Vancouver, and will form a section of the main exhibition.

Last year the show was held for the second time at Victoria, and this will be the sixth occasion upon which it will be organized. The dates will be December 7 to 10, which fall on the same days of the week upon which the potato show has hitherto been held elsewhere.

The exhibition, which is growing steadily in importance, will have seven sections, and to link the Provincial Potato and Seed Show with the Department of Agriculture and the establishment of a productive industrial center was the surest way of aiding arm production in that vicinity.

DELEGATES MAY NEED MORE TIME

THREE DAYS MAY BE FOUND TOO SHORT FOR WINNIPEG CONVENTION

Duration of Gathering May Be Extended to Allow Sufficient Time for All Business

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—The advance guard of various delegations to the Conservative convention at Winnipeg, along with many newspapermen, feature writers and photographers. Several delegates from British Columbia reached the city today. The question of extending the convention beyond the allotted span of Monday, October 10, to Wednesday, inclusive, is already being considered in an informal way. The convention is scheduled to close midnight, Wednesday, October 12, but with the delegates a national leader and many other matters of policy to be discussed it is felt that three days will not afford sufficient time to deal with all the work to come before the national meeting.

TALL MEN SUFFER IN MAINLAND AMBULANCE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Vancouver's present infectious disease ambulance is so short that a man six feet tall has to double up his legs when he lies down in it. Dr. F. T. Underhill, city health officer, has informed the health committee. The doctor submitted reports of officials of the infectious diseases department to the effect that the ambulance—a light one-ton truck chassis equipped with an ambulance body—was not adequate.

Mechanics at the city garage will be asked to examine the car, and Dr. Underhill will ask that a new estimates for 1928 be submitted.

HON. S. F. TOLMIE GOING TO NELSON

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., leader of the British Columbia Conservative party, will leave for the campaign in the Nelson by-election next Monday or Tuesday. J. E. Carpenter, Vancouver Conservative secretary, stated Tuesday.

VICTORIA MAY BE SCENE OF BIG REUNION

"Old Home Week" Will Be Held Here Next Summer If Service Clubs and Other Bodies Approve

MEETING HEARTILY APPROVES PROJECT

Thousands of Former Victorians Would Join in Great "Home-Coming" Celebration

AN "Old Home Week" will be held in Victoria next summer if the proposal sponsored by the Victoria Rotary Club and discussed last night by representatives of local service clubs and native sons' and daughters' organizations, is carried into effect.

A home-coming celebration in Victoria, conducted on the same lines as the annual events in other Canadian cities in which former citizens of Victoria would be induced to revisit it simultaneously, would be an affair of great importance, and would likely mean the journeying to this city of thousands of former Victorians.

If an "Old Home Week" is held here, Victoria will be the scene of the first event of its kind ever held in British Columbia. At last night's meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce Cafe, Mr. Percy C. Abell was named chairman and Miss Catherine McGraw was appointed pro tem. secretary. Representatives from service clubs and native sons' and daughters' organizations were present, personally expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the idea. They will report back to their respective organizations, secure their endorsement and have each body name two permanent representatives to the central committee, which will meet again on Tuesday, October 18, at 8:15 p.m.

OUTLINES PROPOSAL

In outlining the proposal, Mr. Abell said that the "Old Home Week" was inaugurated about the year 1900 in the city of London, Ontario, and was followed by similar celebrations in Buffalo, New York, Hamilton, Toronto and other Eastern centers. He told of the success which had attended each of these "home-comings" and of the many thousands of former residents of these cities who had returned to their birthplace for the week and joined in the celebrations.

Railway Board Gives Decision On B.C. Appeals

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—In judgments handed down today by the Board of Railway Commissioners, it was stated that in regard to certain individual submissions, the board concurred with the report of the chief traffic officer, which opposed any change in the rates. These included: Associated Growers of British Columbia, Limited, re fruit rates; British Columbia Sugar Refining Company, re rates on sugar; Kamloops Board of Trade for rate reductions; Board of Trade, re rates on lumber; re coal rates; Smithers, B.C., re rates on coal; re potatoes.

ONE WAY TO REACH MAJORITY VERDICT

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—A report is current that the Conservatives will not fill the vacancy on the Board of Railway Commissioners which will be created this month by the retirement of A. C. Boyce, whose ten-year term is almost up. It is pointed out that a board consisting of six members divides evenly on some questions and that a board of five would be numerically more satisfactory.

ROLLING STOCK AT LAST TO GO

Railway Material for Siberia, Long Held in Vancouver, Finally to Be Shipped

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Russian railway material, consisting of 36,000 tons of trucks and metal frames for freight cars for the Trans-Siberian Railway shipped here during the war under order of the Czarist Government, destined for Vladivostok, is to go back to Russia by the eastern gateway at Reval on the Baltic, according to information received here today.

The material was stored in the railway yards at Coquitlam, and was recently sold to New York interests, who have now disposed of it to the Soviet Government.

The first shipment of 100 cars will leave here for the Baltic port in November and the balance will follow at frequent intervals.

Plane Takes Fire

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—W. A. Yacker, president of the Yacker Aircraft Corporation, was burned to death today when his airplane crashed from an altitude of 500 feet. The burning plane fell near the Maywood air field when a wing dropped off.

Appointments at Cambridge and Trinity Made

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Two interesting academic appointments have just been announced, that of Mr. Will Spence, as master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and that of Mr. Edward J. Gwynn, as provost of Trinity College, Dublin.

Mr. Will Spence, who has been fellow and tutor of Corpus Christi College, succeeds Rev. Edmund C. Pearce, master since 1914, and vice-chancellor of Cambridge University, 1921-24. Rev. Mr. Pearce has been appointed bishop of the new diocese of Derby.

Mr. Edward J. Gwynn, who has been fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, since 1893, and lecturer in Celtic languages in the University of Dublin since 1907, succeeds the Rev. John Henry Bernard, provost of Trinity College from 1919 until his death recently.

NELSON WILL VOTE OCT. 17

By-Election Will Be Held at Time to Clash With Federal Conservative Association

LOCAL LEADERS TO ENTER FRAY

Polling in the by-election in Nelson has been set for Monday, October 17, with the nomination on the Friday preceding that date.

The bringing on of the election makes it impossible for Hon. J. E. Tolmie, the leader of the Conservative party in this province, to attend the National Convention of the party in Winnipeg. He has also caused Mr. R. H. Pooley to alter his plans and forego attendance there. It will have the effect of upsetting the plans of several other prominent Conservatives in the province, who will be asked to render aid in the contest in Nelson.

Reference was made at the annual meeting of the Conservatives of Saanich last night to the action of the Government in bringing on the election in Nelson at a date that interfered with the presence of Dr. Tolmie and others at the Winnipeg convention.

A CONTEMPLE CASE

Mr. C. H. Dickie, M.P., for Nanaimo, said he hoped the Conservative party would never condescend to such a thing as the bringing on of the election in Nelson at a date that interfered with the presence of Dr. Tolmie and others at the Winnipeg convention.

There had been an ignoring of the rules of the game in this matter, he said. It would have been a sportsmanlike act to have afforded the Conservatives the opportunity to attend the convention in Winnipeg, he said.

QUARANTINED Boys Put in a City of Tents

VERNON, Oct. 4.—The second death in the Goldstream municipality from infantile paralysis occurred on Monday night when Richard Schiller, a boy of five, died.

The boy had been in the hospital since Friday, September 30. On Sunday, eighty-three men from Vernon and Goldstream joined forces in the erection of a city of tents in which the boys from Mackenzie School are housed. Each boy has a separate tent with a wooden floor, heated by oil stoves and with every provision for their comfort. Night and day attendants are in charge and every possible precaution is taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

It has been announced that if no cases develop in Vernon, and there have been no so far, the ban on public assemblies will be lifted for adults on Saturday, October 8, and the public schools will be reopened on the seventeenth.

TEACHERS RUSH TO GET MARRIED

OLDHAM, England, Oct. 4.—There was a decided rush of women school teachers here to marry during the past week-end in anticipation of a resolution at its first meeting refusing to allow appointments of married women as teachers in future, but permitting married women teachers already employed to remain in their positions.

The majority of the marriages took place on Saturday and nearly twenty brides were back at their school desks yesterday, happy and smiling.

EQUAL HANDED

BLACKPOOL, England, Oct. 4.—Delegates to the Labor party conference which is being held here, rose to their feet today as a mark of respect to Sacco and Vanzetti, who were executed in Massachusetts.

When one delegate suggested that the members of the conference should also rise in respect for twenty political prisoners who were executed in Russia last June, cries of dissent arose and the proposal was abandoned.

Soviet Trial

MOSCOW, Russia, Oct. 4.—Five persons charged with espionage on behalf of Poland have been sentenced to death, and forty-five to various terms of imprisonment. Their trial was held at Kamenka-Podolsky, Ukraine.

PREMIER IS HONORED BY LAURIER CLUB

Liberal Policy for the Future Is Outlined by Hon. J. D. MacLean at Banquet

GIVES ASSURANCE OF TAX REDUCTION

Finances of Province in Excellent State, With $1,000,000 in Excess of Sinking Fund Needs

OUTLINING the past policy of the Liberal Government, before an audience of nearly 250, who gathered at the Laurier Club dinner held last night at the Dominion Hotel in his honor, Hon. J. D. MacLean, Premier of British Columbia, said: "Our policy for the future will not be an entirely new one. It will be based on the policy of the past, as I have already outlined. It will be to continue the present policies, but to avoid mistakes that have been made in the past; to still further reduce taxation; to continue our programme of road building as fast as funds will permit, thus opening up the country; to improve the financial relations between Ottawa and British Columbia; and to utilize waste products of industry."

The Premier was piped into the dining-room by Piper Donald Cameron and received a rousing ovation from those present. Mr. Stephen Jones, president of the Laurier Club, before presenting the speaker of the evening, said that the Laurier Club took great pride in welcoming Premier MacLean. The Laurier Club stood for all that was better in politics, the high ideals of that great leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the high ideals of the grand old Liberal party. It stood for rigid economy, honest administration and a reduction of the burden of taxation on the people. The chairman explained what the objects of the club were and said that the members welcomed the Premier because he represented the ideals which the club stood for.

Prior to the Premier's speaking a thirty seconds silence was observed in memory of the late Premier John Oliver.

Church Congress Begins Sessions With Admonition

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A gloomy view of the increasing divide between Christianity and the modern tendencies of civilization, was taken by the Bishop of Durham, preaching at a service in connection with the Congress of the Church of England at Ipswich.

The human spirit was being assuaged by material prosperity, the bishop declared in the constitution of "Civilization. In parting company with Christianity, is restoring features of pre-civilization in its essential cruelty, the prevalence of suicide, the prevalence of superstition, the prevalence of sensuality." The bishop continued, "When we consider the direction our relations are taking in current literature, in the prevalence of good society, I cannot see how any candid, intelligent student of our civilization can deny this as a great revival of religion, and Christ's religion is proceeding and has a formidable force during recent years."

GERMAN PLANE'S TRIP IS SHORT

FIRST STAGE ENDS AT AMSTERDAM INSTEAD OF LISBON AS INTENDED

Vienne actress smuggled aboard shortly before take-off—Mail Sacks Carried

NORDBERN, Germany, Oct. 4.—The first leg of the latest attempt by German aviators to make the westward Atlantic passage by air ended today at Amsterdam instead of Lisbon, as was scheduled.

Barely 130 miles from the island field where the start was made at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon, the Junker plane came to earth after circling the Dutch metropolis. The trip to Lisbon and thence to Azores for the long ocean jump will be resumed tomorrow morning.

The Junkers hydro-aeroplane D-120, in command of Frederick Goese, who was in the Bremen when she made her unsuccessful transatlantic attempt in August, is a low-wing Junkers model G-24 with pontoons. It is a twelve-passenger plane, the cabin of which has been converted into a fuel storage compartment. It carries a complete receiving and sending wireless set and scientific equipment.

A woman passenger was smuggled aboard shortly before the D-120 took off. She is Mrs. Lilli Dillenz, a Viennese actress, and daughter of the painter Carl Hollitzer.

Roif Clarke, a skilled pilot, also is aboard. Two sacks of mail were taken on the D-120.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 5.—The Junkers plane D-120, flying from Germany to the United States by way of Azores, left at 5 o'clock this morning for Lisbon, Portugal.

KURDS CONTINUE IN ANCIENT WAY

ANGORA, Turkey, Oct. 4.—The Turkish Government has dispatched an energetic note to the Persian Government protesting against raids by Kurdish bands in Turkish territory and the pillaging of Turkish villages. The note demands the liberation of Turkish officers taken prisoners and transported to Persian territory.

The Persian Minister of War, it is announced, is coming to Angora to discuss the Turco-Persian frontier incidents with the Turkish Government.

INDUSTRIES ON ISLAND THRIVE

Survey of First Nine Months of Year Points to Considerable Expansion

COAL TONNAGE SHOWS GROWTH

Most of the primary industries of Vancouver Island show a forward movement for the three-quarters of the year which has elapsed today. Up to August 31, the collieries in the Island district have produced 860,340 long tons of coal, as compared with 787,236 tons in the corresponding period of 1926. In view of the fact that plans are in hand for opening two dormant collieries, the production for the remainder of the year should be sustained.

FOREST PRODUCTS

Trade in forest products from Vancouver Island has been active through the year, carload movements, and the returns at the booming grounds on the East Coast showing a satisfactory increase.

The export of poles and ties to Middle Western points has also been maintained.

One of the factors has been the comparative absence of serious forest fires owing to forest fires which have not had such a devastating effect on forest industries in the past Summer as is usually the case. The recent Cowichan Lake fires have somewhat hampered two of the chief camps in that neighborhood, in the delivery of logs to a tidewater mill, and to the Crofton booming ground. Another mill is expected shortly to begin shipping.

Labor Party of Britain Bars Teachers' Society As Too Communistic

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald Defends Action, Which Is Approved of by Overwhelming Majority—National Conference of Party Opens With Clear-Cut Stand on Policy

Destructive Tendencies Condemned, Constructive Policies Demanded

BLACKPOOL, Oct. 4.—In his opening address at the Labor Party Conference here, Chairman Frederick Owen Roberts, Member of Parliament for West Bromwich, said: "Disruptive elements have to some extent blurred the vision of the electorate and temporarily embarrassed the forces of labor. Trade unions here experienced the disharmonizing and undermining indulgence of the minority movement which had endeavored to destroy confidence in responsible leadership and has intrigued to render the task of recuperation and reorganization more difficult."

"They have energetically sought to sow seeds of discord and internal controversy throughout the trade unions. The same disruptive influences have been working in the local Labor parties. Today, however, the Industrial Labor movement and the political Labor movement stand out square, not for disruption or destruction, but for broadly based, comprehensive, constructive policies designed to raise the level of life and the status and power of the masses of our national life."

TEACHERS TOO COMMUNISTIC
Subsequently, on the discussion of the executive's report, the question of the disaffiliation of the Teachers' League from the Labor League came among its members. His motion to refer back to the affiliation was overwhelmingly defeated.

The representative of the Crofton Labor party said the Teachers' League had not been treated fairly. It had been accepted as a Socialist society and in that capacity claimed affiliation. He had never concealed the fact that there were Communists among its members. His motion to refer back to the affiliation was overwhelmingly defeated.

CALLE CRUSHES MEXICAN REVOLT

Fourteen Eminent Personalities, Including Presidential Candidate, Captured and Promptly Executed

TORREON BATTLE HAS SIMILAR END

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4.—The iron hand of Calles already has fallen upon the alleged instigators of the military revolt. Less than twenty-four hours after the uprising started in Mexico City, General Francisco Serrano, candidate for the Presidency, former War Minister and once close friend of General Obregon, declared to be the main leader in the attempt against the Government, was captured, court-martialed and executed. Thirteen of his most prominent followers also paid the supreme penalty.

With the routing of three companies of the twenty in the garrison in Mexico City at midnight Sunday, and reports of threatened risings in various parts of the Republic, President Calles and General Obregon, whose aspirations for another term in the Presidential chair are believed to have brought about the uprising, spread movement of revolt, immediately prepared plans for crushing the rebellion. General Obregon deputed the command of the military forces to the Generalissimo, and executed. Thirteen of his most prominent followers also paid the supreme penalty.

COURT TO AWARD THREE CHILDREN

FATHER'S RELATIVES AND MOTHER'S RELATIVES IN DISPUTE

Former Alleged to Be Too Old to Perform Duties—Religious Differences

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Custody of three small children of E. M. McCabe, seaman, of Victoria, is claimed in the court below by relatives of his wife, who is dead, awaits the decision of the Court of Appeal which heard the opening argument of McCabe's counsel Tuesday afternoon. The case will continue at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Mr. F. C. Elliott, appearing for McCabe, explained the religious differences. He claimed the lower court had no right to transfer the children to a stranger's family. McCabe, he continued, was a Roman Catholic, his wife, who was a Protestant, had obtained the third. Mr. Elliott seeks to have these ordered set aside as given without hearing proper evidence.

Religion was the principal question involved. Mr. Elliott contended, the father's parents and the mother's grandparents being of different faith. He claimed the lower court had no right to transfer the children to a stranger's family. McCabe, he continued, was a Roman Catholic, his wife, who was a Protestant, had obtained the third. Mr. Elliott seeks to have these ordered set aside as given without hearing proper evidence.

INDUSTRIAL BY-LAWS TO BE DEBATED

Committee of City Council to Consider Applications for Extension of Time

ELEVATOR PLANS ARE NOT REVISED

Mr. Claude Flemming Meets With Success on Motion Picture Project in England

Extensions in time are asked for in respect to the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Ltd. 1,000,000-bushel elevator, and the Motion Picture By-Law. The industrial committee of the City Council will meet this afternoon to discuss these applications.

In the first case the firm of C. D. Howe & Company, engineers employed by the city to inspect the plans of the elevator, report to the council that they cannot complete the revision of the plans within the ninety days called for in the by-law and ask that the time be extended. The by-law calls for production of the plans by the grain company and inspection of them, and that construction be started within ninety days. The delay in this case is due more to the city's interest than that of the elevator company.

Mr. Claude Flemming has written to the City Council stating that he is meeting with excellent success. He had found no difficulty in securing releases for the motion pictures before work was started on them. Owing to the time of the year, however, he was experiencing a little difficulty in getting in touch with the motion picture magazines of Great Britain. This being the shooting season, most of them were away from London and he expressed the wish that the council might see fit to extend the time in which to raise the necessary $400,000. In his letter he spoke optimistically of raising the desired amount. He had interviewed several important motion picture producers who were now considering the project. He had not yet received an answer from them, however, as they were out of the city.

Whether an extension of time can be granted by the council legally is the question in point. City Engineer H. S. Pringle is now investigating this. It is the general belief, however, that the extension of time could only be secured by putting another by-law before the people.

SALVATION ARMY CHARTERS LINER

Steamship Vedic Is Engaged to Take British Settlers to Australia This Month

The following message from the Right Hon. L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and for the Colonies, referring to the special sailing of the White Star liner Vedic to Australia with passengers selected by the Salvation Army, has been sent to Commissioner Lamb:

"I desire to congratulate the Salvation Army on their enterprise in chartering a ship to sail from Liverpool on October 15 with 700 of the people of Great Britain who intend to settle among their kith and kin in the Island Continent of Australia. I have no doubt that the new settlers will meet with a hearty welcome on the other side, and that with true British grit and perseverance they will make a satisfactory settlement in their new home. This is not the first time that they have carried out such an undertaking. I cordially wish every success to all concerned."

A most interesting point emerges in connection with British women going to Australia. Apparently Australia has the best of it compared to Canada where passage rates are concerned: for women going to domestic work may travel free of expense. An experienced domestic servant going to Australia may secure free passage; while a domesticated woman (without paid domestic experience) may be nominated as can secure a passage at reduced rate of £16 10s. The £16 10s. may be advanced on loan if required; then if the woman complies to the satisfaction of the Salvation Army and to that of the Government twelve months in domestic service and repays her loan, the whole of the £16 10s. will be repaid to her by the Salvation Army. Also a free passage if the conditions imposed are fulfilled. It is understood that the Salvation Army are willing to undertake the responsibility of nominating selected women who have no paid experience in domestic work.

While it is true that only Army-selected passengers are eligible to sail by the Vedic, it should be clearly understood that the last word whether the would-be migrant from the Homeland may be admitted to Australia rests with the Australian Government, through the Deputy Director of Migration and Settlement, London.

In 1908 the Army chartered the Kensington, 8,888 tons; the Southwark, 8,606 tons, and the Ionian, 8,265 tons, for seven special sailings to the overseas Dominions (Canada). It is understood that, if found to be necessary for the accommodation of migrants, the Army is prepared to arrange other special sailings.

RAILWAY SCHEDULE WILL BE REVISED

Morning Train Will Arrive One Hour Later—Afternoon Train to Depart at 3:30 o'clock

The schedule of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway to go into effect on Sunday, will bring the morning train from Wellington into Victoria at 11:50 o'clock, just one hour behind the present schedule, as it has been found on trial that the hour of departure at Nanaimo is too early for travelers from up-land who desire to come south, and also have considerable distances to come in order to reach the railway.

The northbound passenger train in the afternoon will leave one-half hour of 3 o'clock and ahead of the present 4:55 o'clock schedule. Departing from Victoria at 3:30, the majority of passengers will reach their destinations before nightfall, an important consideration in the country.

There will be a slight change in the hour of the Courtenay down train, but not sufficient to disturb the convenience of passengers who have long distances to come to Courtenay in order to join the train.

The daily train service from Parksville to Port Alberni will be retained, except Sunday.

BANK LOAN IS SLIGHTLY MORE

COMPTROLLER D. A. MACDONALD EXPLAINS WHY CITY HAD TO BORROW MORE

Term of Loan Was Twelve Days Shorter Than in 1926—Heavy Investment in Sinking Fund

The annual bank loan was paid off on September 30. City Comptroller D. A. Macdonald announced yesterday. Last year the loan was not paid off until October 6. This year the city started to borrow on June 7, while in 1926 the first borrowing was started on June 1. The period of the loan was twelve days shorter this year, Mr. Macdonald stated.

The total loan was $325,000 as compared with $370,000 last year. The difference is due, however, to the decrease in the balance carried forward as compared with the balance carried forward into 1926. There was a decrease of $32,000 in the amount of the balance carried forward from last year as compared with that carried forward from 1925.

The largest amount borrowed at any one time this year was $325,000 as compared with $195,000 last year. Mr. Macdonald is also explained by the fact that the city has been borrowing for the liquor profits came through a month later this year. Heavy investment in sinking funds during the early part of the year was another cause, as also was the purchase of the Craigdarroch property for school purposes.

Borrowing to the extent of $400,000 was authorized by by-law this year, as compared with $750,000 last year.

MOSS CONVICTED ON LIQUOR COUNT

Inform Court He Will Take Three Months in Jail Instead of Paying Fine of $300

"You are fined the sum of $300, payable forthwith, or three months' imprisonment, in default of payment," was the judgment delivered by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court yesterday at the conclusion of the hearing of John Moss, who was convicted on a charge of keeping beer for sale at his premises, 819 Penwell Street. "I'll take the three months," Moss affirmed, and he was led to a cell to await transportation to Oakalla to serve a jail term.

Moss, who appeared yesterday on remand, pleaded not guilty to the charge. Sergeant Thomas Heatley, first prosecution witness, told the court of meeting Constable Belcher at 4 a.m., on September 25, at the City Hall and after conversation with him, they both proceeded to Penwell Street. When they got to the accused's house, they heard a disturbance, and some of the persons inside appeared to be under the influence of liquor, he said.

"I'll pay you later," Witness testified that he heard one of the men in the house say, "I'll pay you later." The accused said, "You had better take two bottles of beer with you," and then went to the outside porch, where he lifted some loose boards and got a half bottle of beer out. Later, witness asserted, Moss had given another person some beer, and the recipient said, "I'll pay you later, when I get that $300 that is coming to me."

Sergeant Heatley told the court that a woman on the premises said to the accused, "There were quite a few waitresses in here tonight. Very few bought much."

One bottle of whisky, one-third full, three dozen and one full bottle of beer, and four dozen empty beer bottles were found on the accused's premises by the police.

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE
Constable Claude Belcher corroborated Sergeant Heatley's evidence, and said that he had heard

News and Notes of Realty in Victoria and District

By H. D. PATTERSON

Mr. W. P. Kibbler, a recent arrival in Victoria, is a great enthusiast for Victoria and its future. Only a short time ago he took hold of a store on Fort Street and worked up a good business there. Last week, Pemberton & Son arranged the sale of this business to a newcomer. Mr. Kibbler then bought, through J. A. Walker & Co., Ltd., a high-class furniture and antique business located on Fort Street close to the business centre, and arranged through the agents to sell on Pemberton lease. He has associated himself with another newcomer, and intends to develop this business to a successful conclusion.

Two or three sales of small parcels of close-in business property have recently been closed, one of which represented a quick turnover with profit to the last owner. The following firms reported sales: Pemberton & Son—Five acres on North Douglas Street to a local manufacturer for the development of his business; a small farm with buildings, on the Lake Road, to a local buyer; a business and lease of building as above mentioned, and lots in Hillside and Spring Ridge districts to local buyers.

Helsterman, Forman & Co.—A large residential site on Pemberton Road to an Ottawa resident.

A. A. Maharey & Co.—A bungalow of six rooms in the Gorge district to a local buyer; a house of eight rooms with four lots, on Bay Street, to a local man; a bungalow of six rooms with several lots, near Sidney, to a local resident; also a corner at Moss and Faithful Streets to a local buyer.

J. A. Walker & Co., Ltd.—A new bungalow of five rooms on St. Patrick Street, to a local buyer; also the business above mentioned.

R. V. Winch & Co., Ltd.—A small bungalow, on Albina Street, to a local purchaser.

Alder & Sons, Ltd.—Houses in Victoria West, and the residential part of Saanich, to local buyers.

Annual Radio Show Draws Many Interested People

Second Day of Exhibition Featured by Good Attendance—Patrons Treated to a Great Variety of Entertainment

The second day of the fourth annual radio show of the Victoria Radio Club at the Crystal Garden proved popular, nearly a thousand persons being present during the afternoon and evening. Patrons were treated to a great variety of entertainment gleaned from the air by the different sets and retailed through loud speakers ranging from a simple cone device to a more elaborate orthophonic instrument.

Fifteen radio dealers and radio distributing houses took part in the display, the variety of exhibits ranging from small sets to elaborate pieces of furniture housing mechanical and electrical instruments capable of faithful reproduction over great distances. Interest was shown in the operation of a complete short wave code transmitter and receiver in charge of Mr. H. J. Cunningham, who accepted messages to all parts of Canada and the United States.

A seven-tube self-contained superheterodyne receiver with a direction-finding frame aerial, used to locate sources of power interference, was on display at the Victoria branch of the Federal Radiotelegraph exhibit. Mr. A. L. Gray, radio inspector, demonstrated the outfit in the afternoon, picking up programs from several loud speakers in the hall.

ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY

Radio Sales Service, Limited, exhibit of Eveready batteries and lay-out built B batteries, Amco variable condensers, Philco batteries and A and B eliminators, Tuner chargers of all sizes and Canadian General Electric loud speakers and head phones, drew considerable attention. A fully automatic A and B power unit made for Radiola 28 on exhibit was controlled by a special relay. This power device eliminates all batteries and has only to be connected with the electric light socket and from there to the receiving outfit.

Weller Auto Supply House had a display of Willard batteries of all kinds as a source of radio power supply. The Willard A and B power unit in a compact metal box was the centre of the exhibit. This unit replaces all dry B batteries and storage batteries and requires a minimum of attention.

The Victoria Radio & Electrical Company display included Stewart

Warner and Kolster radio outfits. A Kolster receiver fitted with special cushioned sockets to eliminate all vibration was giving forth music with only a seven-foot section of wire as an aerial and no ground connection.

HOST OF PARTS

Crowther Brothers display included among a host of radio parts a three and a half-foot cone loud speaker, said to be the largest in the city, designed for use with power tubes to produce an enormous volume of music. Crowther Brothers are agents for the Ceco radio tubes and Mohawk receivers.

The Belmont Radio Service exhibit included Atwater Kent sets, Philco batteries and eliminators and Westinghouse batteryless receivers. A seven-tube Atwater Kent set, shielded outfit was exhibited as the newest model of the popular line of sets which range from five tubes up to a thirty tube set. The Belmont exhibit also included a variety of loud speakers, A super shielded six-tube Stewart Warner set, the latest model from the factory, was displayed.

Marconi Canadian built receivers were featured by the Radio Shop, which also had a variety of vacuum tube loud speakers of several designs. A Marconi six-tube console receiver was the centre of attraction.

Jim Bryant's booth contained several models of the popular Rogers batteryless receiver, King radio sets and Trimmer console cone speakers. Rogers sets are now available in five models, ranging from the table model to the walnut jubilee console model, a seven-tube set which is the culmination of two years' laboratory development.

The Murphy Electric Company display featured Westinghouse receivers and Bakelite eliminators of all sizes and trickle chargers employing the Bakelite principle. The Bakelite Company was the pioneer in the B eliminator field.

RADIO SHOP EXHIBIT

The Radio Shop exhibit of Marconi Canadian-built receiving outfit included a model nine batteryless set with an orthophonic loud speaker containing a seven-foot air column producing faithfully all

VALUE OF PASTEURIZATION

Louis Pasteur was the greatest authority of his time on the subject of bacteriology. He demonstrated that fermentation and putrefaction are caused by the presence of countless living organisms, and that these processes can be slowed down by a certain degree of heat, and stopped altogether by intense heat.

There is a vast difference between what is now called pasteurization and that of sterilization. When you think of the word "pasteurize" you immediately think of milk, although the same process may be applied to any other food substance.

If milk is allowed to stand at a temperature above 40°F. it will sour within twenty-four hours. This souring process or fermentation is caused by a bacterium or tiny plant which enters from the air and dust of house or barn, and in the course of its growth changes the milk sugar to lactic acid. When seven-tenths of one per cent of the milk has become acid, the curd coagulates and is said to be sour.

Milk may be sterilized, that is, the bacteria in it may be destroyed by keeping milk at the boiling point for some time. This, however, changes other properties of the milk and lowers its value. The addition of chemicals to prevent souring is prohibited in most places in the United States and Canada, since the chemicals decrease the digestibility of the milk, and often affect the health of the persons, especially infants, drinking it.

Most States or Provinces have a pasteurization law which compels the dairymen to heat the milk to a temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit at that temperature for twenty minutes, and then cool it quickly to below 50 degrees F. This changes the chemical composition of the milk very little, but is just enough to prevent the development of either putrefactive or disease bacteria.

No doubt the best kind of milk to use is that fresh from a healthy cow, but because of the necessity for so much handling and transportation it has been found that pasteurizing the milk is the safest plan for large communities, especially where the laws regarding raw milk are very lax. Pasteurizing cannot make the milk clean, but there is an element of safety in the use of milk which has been thus treated. It has been said that no disease epidemic has ever been traced to pasteurized milk, but many cases have been reported where typhoid and other infectious diseases have apparently come from unclean raw milk produced under unsanitary conditions.

Until the consumer demands better laws for the inspection of herds and dairies, it is probably the safest plan for the average family to depend upon milk which has been treated by pasteurization.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—M. K. T. asks: "How does tuberculosis of the bone start, and what is the cause of the disease?"

Answer—The cause of bone tuberculosis is practically the same as that of tuberculosis in any other part of the body. There is a long period of incubation, and a gradual building up of a poisoned state of the blood. Although a bruise or blow seems to start the trouble, the real cause is from the conditions I have mentioned.

Question—N. A. writes: "I find it impossible to get spinach in a restaurant that is free from sand or grit. Will you please state in your column if it is possible to thoroughly clean this 'king of vegetables,' and how it is done?"

Answer—I know it is true that the greatest objection to spinach you get in restaurants is because the cooks are careless about the preparation of it. This is one of the principal reasons why spinach is not used in the cheaper restaurants. It requires a long time to prepare it by washing in several waters, and many restaurant managers feel that their patrons are not willing to pay enough for spinach to justify taking the time necessary to properly clean it. To clean spinach at home you should separate all the leaves and hold each leaf under running water, placing the washed leaf in a clean dish, the safer plan being to wash each leaf a second time, placing in another clean dish. While spinach is still wet place in covered pan with small amount of hot water, turn fire low for three minutes, then higher for the next five minutes. In this way it can be cooked practically in its own juices. Do not remove the cover until ready to serve.

Question—Mary E. asks: "What causes sweating palms?"

Answer—Some deep-seated toxemia causes this condition. A careful physical examination is necessary to find out just what is producing this poisoning.

Lived One Hundred Years

Less than a month after the hundredth anniversary of her birth, Mrs. Maria Achison Nixon, of the Aged Women's Home, Toronto, Ont., passed away at the institution recently. Mrs. Nixon celebrated her centenary on September 10 with a birthday party at which were present the members of the board of the home, all the inmates and a number of other friends as well. Born in Wiltshire, England, Mrs. Nixon came with her parents to Canada ninety-five years ago. The family first settled in Bytown, going afterwards to Kingston, where they were living at the time of the rebellion of 1837.

notes of the musical scale. With alternating current tubes this outfit is at present the only one of its type in the province, having been shipped direct from the factory after exhaustive tests.

An eliminator for both A and B batteries at the Weller Auto Supply House booth was connected to an imposing test panel containing meters for measuring the line voltage, current, output voltage, plate current, milliamperes, secondary voltage, battery voltage and several power controls. The Willard line of units handled by Weller's included all types of storage batteries and power devices for current supply.

Eliminators of several makes and designs to take the place of filament and plate batteries were featured at the exhibition. Complete units for power supply which have only to be connected to the electric light mains and thence to a radio set were also much in evidence, as were battery chargers of both tube and liquid types. Practically every well-known line of sets had at least one model designed to be operated from the light socket. This type of outfit is becoming increasingly popular with the general public as evidenced by the interest taken in the models at the show and the inquiries received by dealers.

The new layerbuilt Eveready B batteries on display at several booths were examined by many visitors. Built for maximum power production per square inch of battery, the current-producing elements of the layerbuilt are packed in layers, as the name implies. The entire battery is solid with highly efficient material increasing the hours of efficient service.

NOTABLE EXHIBITS

Outstanding among the exhibits were sets and apparatus constructed by members of the Victoria Radio Club, workmanship in many cases equalling if not surpassing commercial outfits. The display was judged yesterday afternoon by Mr. E. J. Haughton, division radio inspector, and Mr. A. L. Gray, radio inspector.

A four-tube Browning-Drake set constructed by Mr. J. T. Ball was awarded first prize. The set was neatly made with a sub-panel and much of the wiring concealed, adding to the clean-cut appearance. Mr. R. Jones was awarded second prize for a five-tube set enclosed in a polished mahogany cabinet.

In the powerful superheterodyne class Mr. G. Fry attained first place with a six-tube outfit, while Mr. W. Walsh was awarded second place with a seven-tube reflex set showing fine painstaking workmanship.

Mr. J. Frampton's short wave receiver, showing a minimum of wiring and extremely low loss construction, took first place in the short wave class, while Mr. W. Wilson came second with a three-tube set using Lorenz coils.

Mr. E. V. Wilson took first place with his tuned radio frequency set.

Guards Invited to Visit on Way Home

EDMONTON, Oct. 4.—That the invitation to have the Guards regiments visit Edmonton and Calgary while en route home from China, will be kept in mind if the occasion arises to take advantage of it, is stated in a letter from the Dominion Office in England, to Hon. Herbert Greenfield, Alberta's Agent-General in London, who has forwarded a copy to Mayor Bury. It therefore appears that there is still a possibility of Edmonton seeing the famous units, should they be routed across Canada after being withdrawn from China.

Several dealers when interviewed late last evening stated that already the exhibition was beginning to bear fruit, many orders for sets and requests for home demonstrations having been received. A record crowd is expected today. The show will close at a late hour in the evening.

Conservative Association Conducts Business With Harmony and Dispatch, Also Hearing Leaders

WARNING GIVEN OF PENDING FIGHT

The annual meeting of the Saanich Conservative Association, which was held last evening in the Lake Hill Community Hall, was well attended. A gratifying feature of the evening was the unanimous way in which the officers of the organization were elected, and the excellent work that had been done by them.

The election of officers, which was unanimously carried out, resulted as follows:
Honorary presidents, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. S. P. Tolmie, Hon. T. O. Coventry, M.P.P., honorary vice-presidents, Mr. C. H. Dickie, M.P., Mr. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P.; president, Col. A. W. Wood; first vice-president, Mrs. Osborne; second vice-president, Mr. W. O. Wainwright; third vice-president, Mr. W. J. Lynn; secretary-treasurer, Mr. A. H. Spurr.

In accepting the position of president for another term Col. Wood asked that there be a united action on the part of the members. It would not likely be a great time before there would be an election, and they must be ready for it.

THE HOUSE LEADER

Mr. R. H. Pooley admonished the members of the association to spare no pains in getting the list in the best of shape and keeping it so. The Liberals had a lot of propaganda ready for the election, but an investigation of it would show that there was a tremendous amount of misrepresentation in it.

There was the contention that the Government had reduced the debt of the province. The truth was that by a recent borrowing the debt had been increased by some $8,000,000, which brought the total now up to $97,000,000.

He showed that the Government, while it took credit for reducing the taxation of the province, was increasing it. The propaganda in this regard was framed to deceive the people. It was a course that the Government should feel ashamed of adopting.

The Government, in the propaganda, showed a reduction in the taxation on certain lines, but it did not explain that the same Government had increased the taxes in this respect itself a few years before, or had switched the taxation. For instance, it was stated that the station duties had been lowered, but it did not state that the probate fees had been increased.

A WONDERFUL TRIBUTE

Mr. C. H. Dickie, M.P., dealt with Federal affairs in large measure advocating the setting of the fullest benefits out of the production of the country possible before shipping them out.

Mr. Dickie said that Dr. Tolmie would be elected as Premier. His immense fund of common sense would appeal to the people of the province. In this matter he said that Dr. Tolmie had enough common sense to constitute genius.

He praised the value of Dr. Tolmie, Mr. Dickie said that he had been told by Senator White, of the Montreal Gazette, that he (Senator White) had been ready to back Dr. Tolmie with his paper for leader of the Conservative party in the Dominion.

Mrs. Osborne, on behalf of the association presented both Mrs. Tolmie and Mrs. Coventry with beautiful bouquets.

Following the addresses and the transaction of the business, refreshments were served by the ladies of the association.

Spends Day Here On Business Trip

MR. R. H. RIMMER
Manager of the advertising department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., of Toronto, who spent yesterday in Victoria visiting the C.G.E. district. Mr. Rimmer speaks of the great growth in the popularity of electrical contrivances, especially among the gentler sex.

ELECTRICITY IS FAMILY FRIEND

NO ONE ENJOYS BENEFITS OF MYSTERIOUS FORCE MORE THAN HOUSEWIFE

Demand for Kitchen Equipment Is Increasing, Says Mr. R. H. Rimmer

Though its original source is still shrouded somewhat in mystery that wonderful atom known to the world as electricity has been harnessed by man in such a manner as to bring untold blessings to the human race. And no one enjoys the benefits that have come in its train more than the housewife does.

Compared with that of a decade ago the present day kitchen in the modern home is a place of peace and contentment, where the air is cool and pleasant and where the only heat is where it should be—near that article it is cooking—and this has been made possible only by electricity.

DEMAND INCREASES

Every year sees a greater demand among the women of the house for electrical contrivances in the kitchen, according to R. H. Rimmer, manager of the advertising department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., of Toronto, who was a visitor in Victoria yesterday on a business trip.

An enormous increase in the business of the General Electric Company is reported by Mr. Rimmer, who said that a strong demand for electrical homes was being made by the women, who given favorable conditions, would insist on this class of home—and succeed in getting it.

"Contrast the home using the latest method of electric cooking with the old methods," said Mr. Rimmer, "and you will find that in the one where there is an electric stove heat in the kitchen the process of cooking demands constant, and trying, attention and the nerves of the housewife are generally on edge. In 'electrical homes' those using the Hotpoint ranges, the whole process has been simplified."

"The only heat is where it should be and the cooking requires no attention owing to the automatic control which the Hotpoint range has. The temperature needed. Another specialty that proves a boon is the electric timer which can safely be left to maintain and accurate oven temperature and cutting off the current at the correct moment without attention."

"Under these circumstances it is no wonder that women are so enthusiastic about electric cooking," said one user of the Hotpoint range who also pointed out that a real saving in food had been demonstrated at her own home.

NICHOLSON CASE

On the application of J. D. McPhee the court reinstated on the list the appeal of Angus Nicholson from a conviction for manslaughter and four-year sentence imposed by Mr. Justice D. A. Macdonald at the Vancouver Spring Assizes. The prosecution arose out of the death on April 3, at Hotel Canada, of Marshall Douglas.

Leave to submit new evidence on behalf of Nicholson was granted by the court. The testimony relates to a taxi driver, Lawrence Drapeau, who has deposed that he was called by Police Officer B. Dalton to the corner of Richards and Hastings streets on the morning of April 5 to pick up two men. Drapeau has stated that he there found two men, both under the influence of liquor, and one of whom, Nicholson, was lying in the gutter. He added that the Crown did not call him as a witness.

It will also be contended on behalf of the appellant that Dr. A. W. Hunter varied his evidence on an important point in the trial of Robert Moore, who was acquitted on a murder charge in connection with Douglas' death, from that which he had given previously in the Nicholson trial. This testimony relates to a question whether a man's skull could be broken if it were held on a pavement and pounded with a fist.

The Nicholson appeal will be heard during the first week in November if this time is suitable to the court. A. M. Johnson, K.C., is counsel for the Crown.

The House of Rogues

By CHRISTOPHER B. BOOTH

CHAPTER XI
VOICES OF ANGER

It was but a moment or so longer when she penetrated her consciousness the sounds of voices; almost at once they reached an angry pitch, coming from an open window directly over the balcony, which was, it later developed, John Strawn's study.

One of those voices belonged to Strawn and the other was Bob Dolliver's, the latter having intruded upon the master of The House of Rogues while Strawn was finishing a perusal of the mail which had arrived that morning.

"Resigning your job, eh?" Strawn was saying, and laughed shortly. "I thought you were made of gamier stuff than that, Dolliver. I thought you'd be the sort who would make a good loser. Can't stand defeat, huh?"

"That isn't quite the point, Mr. Strawn," Dolliver answered, his tone still calm and controlled. "I find that your relationship of employer and employee hampers my freedom of speech. I've got something to say that can't very properly be said to the man who gives me a pay-check the first of each month."

John Strawn bridled instantly. "What the devil are you driving at, Dolliver?" he demanded belittlingly.

"We'll get at that very quickly," replied Bob evenly, "and I want you to understand I mean every word I say. I've been your secretary for almost two years, and during that time I have become acquainted with two John Strawns."

"One of them is good-natured, jovial, with a genial smile, a likeable good fellow—and that's the John Strawn that most people know. It's only those who live with him day by day, who know the other John Strawn, the man who—"

"You see here, Dolliver," you're going too far!" Strawn's voice began to thunder, and it was at this point that Polly Eastman, sitting on the balcony a few feet below, began to hear the conversation with a distinctness that included almost each syllable. "Have you suddenly gone crazy?"

"The other John Strawn is the man who breaks from under restraint ever so often, who breaks loose in wild fits of rage, and that's the John Strawn whom I saw putting at the tenth hole out at the Glenview Country Club a month ago. You fluffed an easy one and sliced off the green; the caddy happened to laugh. The harmless, freckle-faced little kid of fourteen wasn't laughing at you, but you thought he was. You flung out at him with your putter and smashed the little beggar's wrist."

"Damn your insolence!" belleted Strawn. "What do you mean by talking like that to me?"

"You claimed that you didn't intend to hit him and gave the boy's mother $700 to keep it quiet. Then there was the time last Summer when the new black horse gave you a nasty spill—because you didn't know how to manage a spirited horse, you grabbed a hay fork out of the green; the caddy happened to steel prongs through the animal's neck."

On the balcony below Polly clasped her hand across her mouth to suppress the scream of horror which rose to her throat. Thinking of the John Strawn that she knew—jovial, self-possessed, ready-smiling—it was almost impossible for her to believe that these things were true.

"It was my horse, wasn't it?" demanded Strawn. "The horse was vicious and almost killed me. Didn't I have a right to go after him?"

"If it had been the hostler who killed that thousand-dollar stallion, you'd have sent him to jail."

"Get out of my house before I throw you out!" raged Strawn. "How dare you talk like this to me? Get out or I'll—"

"No, you won't. Strawn. I'm not afraid of you. You're man-handled two valets that I know of—all over some trifles, and you've let your nephew feel your fists more than once. My God, man, what do you do to the woman whom you make your wife?"

Strawn's face was livid, his eyes two blazing hot furnaces of rage, and he moved back in his chair as if he would leap to his feet and hurl himself at the other, but Bob Dolliver, despite his lack of bulk, was a muscular, athletic man, and the unfolding firmness with which he stood his ground discouraged the completion of Strawn's threatening movement.

"So that's it, eh?" he sneered. "You're in love with the girl yourself, and because you can't have her—"

"Yes, I'm in love with Polly," Dolliver broke in. "I'm so much in love with her, Strawn, that I don't propose to see her turned over to the brutality of your insane rage—not if I can prevent it."

"I suppose you're going to tell me that if I don't break off with the girl that you'll tell her—about me. You think that if you can get me out of the running you may have a chance with her yourself."

"Someone ought to warn her of the hidden beast who sleeps behind that sleek smile of yours, but I'm barred. Only a cad would carry that sort of a tale to the girl he cares for—about the man she has agreed to marry."

Perhaps Strawn was relieved. "Well," he demanded sarcastically, "what do you propose to do?"

"I propose to do just this," answered Bob Dolliver, his body straining forward. "You'll marry Polly forewarned that if you ever so much as lay a finger on her in anger, if you ever take out one of those rages on that girl, I'll come after you and strangle the life out of you. Do you understand me, Strawn? If you ever harm Polly, I'll kill you."

"Damn you! I'll teach you to meddle with my affairs!" They met at the corner of the desk and Strawn made a brutal swing for the other man's face. The blow went wild and they clinched. Dolliver's strong fingers fastened about Strawn's collar with the grip of a bulldog's teeth, bearing him back to the chair and flinging him down with a heavy thud.

"Strawn," he panted, "the just thing for me to do is not to run the chance; I ought to throttle the life out of you right here and now. Don't forget that I mean what I have said; if you ever leave the mark of your anger on that girl I'll kill you!"

On the balcony beneath the second floor window Polly Eastman's slim body was rigid. Her ears had caught the sounds of the struggle and the ominous words of warning. Only by smothering her fingers tightly against her mouth was she able to shut off the cry which rose to her throat.

It was true; she knew that it was all true. John Strawn was everything that Bob Dolliver had accused him of. If he had come to her personally with the account of the man's cruelties she might have discounted it as had been libel of desperate jealousy, but these things had been said to Strawn's face and he had not denied them.

She was sick and dizzy with the thought of it—Strawn, insane with rage, striking the little freckle-faced caddy at the tenth hole, wielding the sharp-pronged hay fork of the splendid horse!

"Thank God, I found out in time!" she whispered. "Those are the things that Paul Grimshaw meant, that's what Paul was hinting at. He knew—what the future promised."

For another few minutes she sat there, leaning limply against the stone parapet, too unnerved to trust her feet. Behind her, in the living room, a mantel clock chimed the half hour after ten. She stood up, unlocked the door, groping her way to the French windows and inside the house, seeking the stairs.

She must find her mother and tell her what had come to her ears. Surely, she was sure, her mother, if she necessarily would not drive her mother to further urging now. She was mounting the steps, her hand clinging to the rail for support when—

"Bang!" Overhead there roared the raucous voice of a pistol and a dull, plumping thud as if of that of a falling body. Then the house was still again, that gripping, intense stillness which always seems to follow a moment. A door slammed nearby, as if it had been closed in desperate haste. Again silence.

Polly's knees would have collapsed beneath her weight except that her hand clung to the stairway railing. Afterwards she wondered how she had summoned the strength to move herself forward. A terrible fear, born of what she had heard out there on the balcony, clutched at her heart. There must have been another meeting between Strawn and Dolliver, and one of them—?

The thought was an unfinished, horror-stricken question. The answer to it lay just a few feet in front of her.

John Strawn's study was near the head of the stairs, to the right. The door was open. Polly's pace lagged as she neared, until she but crept forward, almost inch by inch. Why was there no sound? What had happened to the others inside the big old house which, from the moment she had entered it, filled her with a feeling of depression—almost of despair?

She took another step forward and recoiled. The sunlight splashing across his face so that no detail was lost to that first glance, Strawn lay upon the floor, sprawled in a limp, ungainly heap. A trickle of blood crossed his forehead, moving sluggishly down across his right cheek.

Beside him knelt a man; at the foot of his footstep, her gasp of fresh terror the man turned. It was Bob Dolliver, his face almost as grey as the death pallor upon the features of that prostrate thing which, but a moment before, had been John Strawn in the life.

Polly averted, almost fainting, as she leaned against the side of the door, unable to tear her gaze from where lay the form of her husband. Dolliver leaped to his feet.

"Go back, Polly! Go back!" he cried hoarsely. "This—this is no sight for a woman's eyes."

A sobbing moan of fresh horror escaped her as he saw what was in Bob's hand—a thirty-eight calibre, old-fashioned pistol with a long, blue-steel barrel. The weapon slipped from his fingers and fell to the rug.

"Go back," he said again. "Go get Jagers, or Paul—somebody."

"He's dead!" "He—dead?" Dolliver inclined his head and stared down into the lifeless face, the muscles contorted into a frozen expression of fear.

"He is dead," he answered huskily, his voice shaking. "Yes, Strawn is dead, and I am glad—for your sake—that it's happened."

"The floor of the room seemed to tip and the walls to sway drunkenly before Polly's staring eyes and she would have fallen except that Dolliver leaped to her and supported her sagging weight. There was but one scintillating, almost self-accusing thought in her mind—Bob Dolliver had killed Strawn to save her from a marriage with this man with the temper of a brute!"

No doubt they had quarreled again and Strawn, in one of those wild rages of his, had driven the younger man to violence. That must be what had happened.

"Oh, Merciful Heaven!" cried Polly, her voice raising to almost a scream. "You killed him—for me?"

"Polly, what are you saying? That—that I killed John Strawn. I—I was on the balcony. The window there was open; the balcony directly underneath. I—I heard the quarrel; I heard what you said to him about the caddy, about the horse—I understand, Bob; you did it for me. He drove you to it; I know he did; but—I shan't tell Bob—I swear to you that I shan't tell them—anything!"

COLUMBIA One of the most elaborate sets ever constructed at First National's Eastern production units for a motion picture may be seen in "The Lunatic at Large," a comedy starring Leon Errol, showing for the last times today at the Columbia Theatre. During the filming of "Chickie," a set which was considered the last word in ballroom sets was built for one of the big scenes in that picture. But for the ballroom scene in the Errol picture a still more elaborate set was erected and this set more than one hundred picked feminine beauties are shown. Eighteen of these girls were selected from the chorus of "Louis the 14th," the Ziegfeld musical comedy in which Errol was starred evenings and matinees during the time he worked on the filming of the picture.

DOMINION Mistakes made by THEATRE screen actors sometimes turn out to be the most interesting details of a production. During the filming of the duel scenes in "Lovers," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational new drama of modern Spain, now showing at the Dominion Theatre, Ramon Novarro dropped his sword, quite by accident. Before the camera stopped he had stooped, recovered it, and parried a thrust by his antagonist, John Miljan, and the scene proved one of the most thrilling details of his sensational duel. The new picture is a dramatic romance of Spain of today, with Novarro and Alice Terry, heroine of "Mare Nostrum" and "The Magician," in the principal roles. The story of the poisonous effect of scandal on a home and upon human souls, told with a gripping sweep of power.

CAPITOL Norma Talmadge's THEATRE modern screen version of "Camille," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is the most interesting fact of the day, author, Alexander Dumas, the younger, founded the character of his most celebrated heroine on a real French girl, a Marie Duplessis, who was born in Normandy more than one hundred years ago. Marie Duplessis is the original of the Marguerite Gautier in "Camille." The stage attractions include the Ukelele Hounds, Denham and Wallace, in a special jazzy, tuneful programme, including several popular hits from the past.

The De Céciletoes are offering a novel comedy dance presentation that will surely please everybody, and last but not least is Miss Louie Fisher, a monologist of no mean ability. The Capitol Concert Orchestra tops the stage specialties with a dandy rendition of the ever-popular "Penny Hoe."

COLISEUM The vaudeville at the THEATRE Coliseum Theatre this week is of an exceptionally high calibre, and is being well received by all who see it. The first act is little Iris Gaskill in a number of interpretative dances; next comes Miss Paine, a soprano who renders two numbers in a remarkably clear soprano voice, and closing the vaudeville programme is Miss Pearl Hoag and Templeton Moss in a novelty double complaining singing and selections on the cello. On the screen the big attraction, of course, is the fight picture, of which little need be said, as it certainly speaks for itself. The feature picture is entitled "Soft Cushions." Abandoning the formula developed by several screen generations of comedians, Douglas MacLean successfully pioneers in a brand new field with this story from the pen of the late George Randolph Chesley. Against the pictorially beautiful background of the Orient, MacLean, in the role of a romantic young "Qet-Rich-Quick-Wallington" plays a laugh-a-second comedy of composed of equal quantities of romance, thrills, guffaws, chuckles and good old-fashioned laughs.

PLAYHOUSE Building up to a THEATRE dramatic climax which for sustained power, pathos and unparalleled conflict of emotion and will has not been approached since the famous trial scene in "Madame X," a paean to the power of woman in politics, under the compelling title of "Her Honor the Governor," is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, and which gives to Pauline Frederick, one of the finest emotional actresses, a role which she has made one of the strongest ever seen on stage or screen. What is a compromising situation? Readers will get the answer to this and many other questions in "The Midnight Janitor," the new production on the stage at the Playhouse this week. Will Marshall in the role of Billy Bird, the innocent husband, is doing one of the best bits of work he has ever done in this difficult part.

The letter, from Mr. W. L. We should like to receive complete illustrated literature on Victoria, Vancouver Island and Island towns and villages."

Brownies at St. Margaret's

Molly Little receives highest honor. The Brownies of St. Margaret's School, through the kindness of Miss Barton, when the 5th Brownie Pack, with their Brown Owl, Miss Townsend, were hostesses to the 1st Victoria, 2nd Victoria (Foul Bay), 5th Victoria (Esquimalt) and 6th Victoria (Gonzales) packs and their officers, Mrs. George Phillips, commissioner for Victoria district, was a guest of honor.

A delightful and novel plan of entertainment had been prepared for the enjoyment of the little guests, who were met on arrival by Guides of the St. Margaret's School Company, and escorted to the gymnasium, where they were immediately drawn into merry games.

The various classrooms had been "magiced" into corners of Brownie land, approach by appropriate trails, a scattering of acorns would lead to an oak forest, or if a ruddy line of wild rose hips were followed, a rose bower was discovered. In each room a presiding fairy, personated by a Brown Owl, led in some special revel, and entertained each party of Brownies who had followed the trail, until at ten-minute intervals, a bugle call given by a wonderful herald in velvet doublet and hose, warned the little folk that it was time to seek a new trail and fresh adventure. By the time all corners of Brownieland had been visited, as was announced, and full justice was done to the dainty repast which was served by brisk young Guides.

A very pretty and impressive ceremony afterwards took place, when Molly Little, of Gonzales Pack, received her "wings" at the hands of her Brown Owl, Mrs. George, and "flew up" into the 3rd Victoria Guide Company. The Brownie "wings" are the greatest honor to be won by Brownies, and can only be given to one who has carried a first-class badge and has a specially good record. It is the only Brownie badge which may be worn with Guide uniform.

Five members of the 4th Victoria Pack were also received into the 3rd Victoria Guide Company. Joan Pinhorn, Betty Street, Cynthia McLean, Stella Cunningham and Lorna Cotton, all having reached Guide age, were transferred by Miss Townsend Brown Owl.

A verse of thanks for their entertainment, coupled with an invitation to their hostesses, was pretty sung by the Foul Bay Pack, and cheers for Miss Townsend and her Brownies, and for Miss Barton were heard in hearty fashion by the Esquimalt Pack, before the singing of the National Anthem.

GARDENERS HEAR TALK ON BULBS

Mr. F. Bennett Makes Address to Association With Useful Hints

Mr. Fred Bennett addressed the Victoria and District Gardeners' Association on the culture of Spring flowering bulbs at its regular meeting last evening, over which Mr. F. R. Leighton presided.

For prospective commercial growers considerable datum was supplied relative to cost of bulbs, labor and the potential income from bloom and bulbs, also the profitable market in the prairie centres and as far East as Toronto.

Numerous questions were asked by the audience.

The successful exhibitors for the meeting were: Floral—L. A. Green Vegetables—L. A. Green; 2, Dr. A. G. Price.

SOUSA'S BAND WELCOMED HERE

Enthusiastic Reception Given Veteran American Conductor and His Musicians

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Lieut. Commander John Philip Sousa, the veteran American conductor, and his band on the occasion of their return to the city yesterday to give afternoon and evening concerts at the Arena. Not even one of the wettest October days on record succeeded in dampening the ardor of band-music lovers. Last night's audience was one of the biggest ever seen in the big auditorium, and was so insistent in its plaudits that before the National Anthem brought the programme to a close enough encores had been added to almost double the length of the entertainment.

The band's repertoire is extraordinarily varied as to material. There is something to suit every taste, from the most "high brow" to the most modern of jazz enthusiasts. The juxtaposition of operatic compositions and the most racy humor and responsive music is sometimes surprising, but it never met with anything but apparent whole-hearted approval. The good humor and responsiveness of the conductor and his band helped to sustain their wonderful popularity. Commander Sousa's style is quiet and unobtrusive, but he has extraordinary control of his instruments, and although they play with infectious spirit, animation and abandon, there is also fine balance, and the finest phrasing and rhythm which comes only from close attention to the baton. The perfect pitching of the instruments was another point noted.

OPENS WITH OVERTURE

The evening programme opened with the overture from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman," and among the number of semi-classical character were the "Andante Cantabile" from Tchaikovsky's Opus 11, which made a beautiful transcription for band instruments; and Massenet's "Carmen" Suite, "Naples," which formed the finale of the programme. The Tchaikovsky number demonstrated, as well as anything that was played, the beautiful control and balance. The delicacy with which the cornets in particular were played was a feature which merits special comment.

Among the special favorites were Sullivan's "Lost Chord" in the coda of which was worked up a tremendous effect, very similar to the use of a full organ. The big horns and percussion instruments were very useful in attaining this. The descriptive "Mars and Venus" (Sousa) in the same group of "International" was enthusiastically applauded. Several of the encores also proved very popular. One of the most applauded numbers of the evening was Sousa's own "Stars and Stripes," good military march music, cheery, ringing, with plenty of voice from the cornets and trumpet, piccolos and percussion instruments. This number was one of the three new marches, the first of which "Magna Charta" was written, a note on the programme stated, at the request of the International Magna Charta Day Association, which urges the observance of one day annually by the seven English-speaking nations, and is dedicated to their nations to strengthen the

YANKS AND PIRATES IN FIRST OF SERIES TODAY

BUSH MAY USE CUYLER IN SERIES

Pittsburgh Manager in Exclusive Interview With Moriarty Says There Is No Prejudice

MILJUS WILL BE RELIEF PITCHER

Lee Meadows to Have Fling in Series—Declares Pirate Defence Better Than New York's

(Exclusive Interview with Donie Bush for The Colonist and North American News-Alliance)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—Pittsburgh pitchers are ready for the New York attack. I watched the Pirates in their last batting practice this afternoon and while they were hammering curve balls and fast ones over Forbes Field, I talked to Donie Bush.

Bush was in excellent spirits. He frankly discussed his plans. The secrecy that some managers show was entirely absent in him. "There's nothing to hide," said Donie. "I'm going to start Ray Kremer in the opening because I believe he has the stuff that makes a truly great pitcher. He is the logical choice. He's impressed me so much that I can't start anyone else. Kremer's curve and change of pace are going to give the Yanks a lot to worry about. I'm not fooling myself about the Yankees. They can hit, but we've got pitching that will trouble them. Vic Aldridge is my selection for the second game. He's had a big season. He has a fast drop curve, and I understand the Yanks don't like that kind of ball. Aldridge will show them plenty of it."

"Then there's also the chance of the Yankees not being at the top of their batting form right now. They slump as well as any other team. Maybe they've got a slump now."

"Don't forget that we've got some batting punch ourselves, and we've got besides that a close defence in games where the pitching is even. Our defensive, which is better than New York's, will give us an advantage."

TO USE MEADOWS

"Lee Meadows will also have his fling in this series. Here is a pitcher who'll stop the heaviest hitting club in the world if his control is good. He knows what he wants to do with every ball he pitches, and don't think this Carmen Hill and his screw ball won't worry them. I will stop them."

I asked Donie whom he expected to use as relief pitcher and he told me, "Miljus has been a great help to us in light of our good hander with a world of stuff and I think he will be the ideal man for relief roles."

I also asked Donie whether he would use Kiki Cuyler in the series. "I certainly shall be glad to use Cuyler if the opportunity arises. You know yourself, as a manager, that if you can deliver when the time is ripe, or if you think he can, and Cuyler is no exception, merely because we've had a little difference. He is one of the greatest ball players when he is going at top form, but I couldn't break up a winning combination to please those who thought Cuyler belonged in the line-up."

"Yes, let me state frankly, that there's no prejudice, and I'll be glad to play Cuyler if I can possibly put him into the ball game when it will help the club."

And there you have Donie Bush's most intimate thoughts about the series. Of course, situations are bound to arise that cannot be foreseen. I expect him to handle those problems in just as masterly a manner as his capable and clever opponent—Miller Huggins.

INTERMEDIATES TO OPEN OCT. 15

Rugger's Prepare for Busy Season—Five Teams Entered—Opening Games Are Announced

Intermediate rugger will get into action in the first games of the season on Saturday, October 15, with two matches on the program. The Normal School fifteen will oppose Victoria College, while the 16th Canadian Scottish aggregation will clash with the University School. Rentwood College will receive a bye in the first round.

Entries are still being called, and any team wishing to enter should file with the secretary not later than October 13. The new rule governing the age of intermediate players will come into effect this season and is as follows: "Players eligible for the Intermediate League shall not have passed their twentieth birthday on October 1, 1927."

Dollar Parlay Would Have Made Fancy Sum

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Seven million dollars for one dollar would have been the reward for a race track bettor at Saint-Clovis yesterday, who was fortunate to pick the winner in six races and to parlay his initial bet.

All the favorites lost. The odds on the winners were 6-1, 8-1, 15-1, 20-1 and 40-1. The total for one dollar, luckily placed would have been $4,720,000.

How World Series Eligibles Compare in All-Around Playing

The accompanying batting and fielding averages, comparing the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, do not represent the full season's performance of the two teams, but are the latest authentic averages possible. Except for Ruth's change in home run status, 80 instead of the 57 shown, and Gehrig's 46, they represent a basis of comparison not more than a point or two at variance with the way the players finished the season. The averages, as brought up after the Yanks had played 149 games, the Pirates 146, follow:

MORIARTY PREDICTS YANKEES WILL SLUG PIRATES TO DEFEAT

Presence of Both Ruth and Gehrig in Batting Order Gives Pittsburgh-Hard Problem to Solve—Baseball's Big Event Largely Matter of Brute Offensive vs. Defence Machine

Wilcy Moore Is Likely to See Much Service During Big Series

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager of the Detroit baseball team, former big league third baseman, and for ten years an American League umpire. (Copyright, 1927, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

The World Series, with the New York Yankees pitted against the Pittsburgh Pirates, seems to be largely a matter of brute offensive strength versus a well-oiled defensive machine.

Please do not misconstrue. I do not mean the Pirates are weak with the ash, on the contrary, they have demonstrated that they can hit hard and far, but I am convinced the Yankees can hit harder and farther.

Strangely enough, Miller Huggins and Donie Bush, the pilots who will engineer these struggles, were in their playing days second baseman and shortstop, respectively, the two most important positions outside of the battery places. This grants to both of them the unlimited possibilities of what can happen between the rubber and the plate.

Donie Bush is not fooling himself in the least. He realizes that his pitchers will have to display a phenomenal brand of stuff and almost faultless control to check a hammering of hits by Ruth and Gehrig in particular, and the remainder of the Yankees in general.

Last year it was perfectly logical to pass the "Babe" to put the burden on Gehrig, and pitchers got away with it often, but this season finds the robust Gehrig just about as dangerous with the willow as the home-run king himself, and there seems to be no alternative but to pitch to both of them, otherwise the risk of the intentional pass is too great.

Assuming that Ruth and Gehrig will appear at the plate four or five times each in a nine-inning game is enough to give any manager and his pitchers a spine full of shivers. Then in between come Lazzeri, Meusel, Coombs, Dugan and Koenig, any one of whom can swing a mean flail.

THINKS MORE MAY START

That seems to be the Yankees' hope. If they hit the ball according to form, Miller Huggins will not expect any more from his pitchers than they have shown all season. I would not be surprised to see the big plainsman, Wilcy Moore, on the rubber when the curtain rises. Huggins started Moore several times towards the end of the season, and he was very effective on all occasions, although he is primarily a "finisher."

Naturally the Yankee manager places a world of confidence in his "sinker-ball" pitcher. Personally I have come to the conclusion that Moore is the greatest relief pitcher since the days of Ed Walsh. His weird delivery has stopped all the American League clubs, and I believe the Pirates will find him most difficult to hit safely, mainly because the National League has no such type of hurler. If Huggins opens with Moore, this will reveal his plan to use Moore as often as possible. Hoyt or Penneck should be the choice to face the Pirates next if Moore starts.

Donie Bush, regardless of his other plans, is hoping for great things from his curving clan, and rightly so. The last two weeks of the senior league race proved to be the acid test for his staff, and if they are not burned out, they should be on edge to furnish some worthy pitching duels.

In Kremer, Bush has an ace, if there ever was one, and I look for him to make plenty of trouble for the Yanks. Kremer has an excellent curve and fast ball which he mixes dextrously with a change of pace, but best of all he has an unmistakable pitching heart, a great asset in the pinches.

WARNS YANKS OF MEADOWS Meadows is another of the star type. He is a great curve ball pitcher, and that delivery may be a thorn in the side of the Yanks. During the last few weeks of batting practice, the Yankee batters purposely asked their own pitchers to feed curve balls to them because they expect more curves than fast ones from the Pirates' corps.

The Yankees are probably very much concerned about Carmen Hill and his style of pitching. I understand he depends mostly on his "screw" ball. This always was a very troublesome delivery for a slugging club to combat, and if Hill employs his favorite slant with discretion, he may be able to stop the Yanks some weeping powders.

Vic Aldridge is strictly a curve ball pitcher, and has had a nice string of victories to prove his worth this season. However, I do not believe Bush figures his chances of winning are as good as that of his other star hurlers.

I am picking the Yanks to win because of the prevalent reason, their terrific hitting ability. I saw them pound the star pitchers of Detroit and the other American League clubs all season. If the Pirates' staff can subdue them it will be an achievement, and in all sincerity I shall be ready to take off my hat to them.

HANDSOME CUP IS PRESENTED

Sir Thomas Lipton Donates Trophy for "Big Four" Canadian Rugby Championship

Standing approximately three feet high and valued at hundreds of dollars, Sir Thomas Lipton has given a trophy for the British Columbia Canadian Rugby championship series. The cup is now in the city and will go on display at The Toggery Shop today.

Presented to the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League for annual competition, the massive silver cup is one of the finest ever seen in Victoria.

Mounted on a large black base, which is surmounted with silver shields, the cup is elegantly engraved. Just below the bowl of the trophy, worked in enamel, is the Canadian flag, the Union Jack and the Shamrock. Two carved handles add to the grace of the trophy. Mounted on the cover of the bowl is a Rugby player holding a ball.

The Victoria U.C.T. team, which is at present leading the series for the beautiful trophy, is anxious to have its name engraved on one of the silver shields at the base. The team which defeated the Mainlanders on Saturday is in first-class condition for the game to be played here on Saturday at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 p.m. against Varsity. The boys held a workout at the Royal Athletic Park, yesterday and will have another practice today.

Reg. Noble Sold to Detroit for $10,000

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—Reg Noble, veteran defence player of the Montreal Maroons, and former Winnipeg hockey player, was sold today to the Detroit Cougars of the National Hockey League. The price involved in the transaction was not divulged, but it is understood to be $10,000, without other players figuring in the deal. Noble will likely be selected as captain of the Detroit team, which is being completely revamped for the season, following the appointment of Jack Adams as manager.

3. A goal kicked from a drop or place kick, three points.

5. A safety touch shall score two points.
6. A rouge or kick to the dead line, one point.

8. A rouge is made when a player touches the ball to the ground behind his own goal line, or when the ball is kicked by a player twenty yards behind the goal line.
9. A safety touch is made when a player carries the ball back across his own goal line.

A person should know that just because he has big feet it doesn't mean that he's in good standing

Injury May Keep Star Out

Herb Penneck, brilliant southpaw of the New York Yankees, whose severe knee injury received yesterday during batting practice, may force him out of the world's series. Penneck is one of the Yanks most valuable choppers and has never been defeated in a world's series. Attending physicians believe that the pitcher would recover fully in two days, but it is considered doubtful whether he will be able to start before the third or fourth game, if at all.

Diegel Masters Florida Water Hole

By SOL METZGER

At the third hole of the Everglades Club of Palm Beach, 125 yards over water from tee to green, Leo Diegel is wont to make a tee out of sand some two inches in height, place on that a patented rubber tee, take his spade maulie and catch the ball on the down swing, propelling it to great heights and having it fall with rebound, so great is the cut imparted. In the meantime Leo's clubhouse goes down to complete its arc and removes a divot from the turf some three inches in advance of where it hit the ball. It's a marvelous shot, a thriller. Leo has had more than his share of 2's on this short hole during the Winter campaign.

Right here is a lesson in backspin. To put stop on a ball the crack golfer does not attempt to impart underspin by some trick of the wrists. What he does is to hit the ball on the downswing with the face of his lofted club. He does not hit it with the edge of this face. And he is careful to make contact with the ball before he takes turf.

Now if you exaggerate this idea by raising the ball several inches from the turf, as Leo does on the shot described above, you can readily see that the backspin or cut imparted will be tremendous. And when you are shooting for a small green over water you need cut to hold the shot. Furthermore, a ball so elevated will be propelled high into the air and drop almost straight onto the green. That, too, will aid in holding it near where it drops.

AMERICANS DOMINATE OPEN GOLF

Ten U.S. Women Remain in Championship Flight for Canadian Open Title After First Rounds of Play

ADA MacKENZIE
WINS HER MATCH

Helen Paget Defeats Chicago Woman on Last Holes—Many Close and Interesting Matches

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—The American threat to regain the Canadian ladies' open golf championship, after the title and Duchess of Cornwall Gold Cup had remained in Canada for two years, became very pronounced today as a result of the first round matches at the Lambton Club and this afternoon the sixteen players who survived the first day's play include ten United States players, five Canadians and one from Bermuda. When the first pair teed off this morning the Americans and Canadians were evenly represented, each country having fifteen players in the titular quest, while Great Britain and Bermuda each had one.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, holder of the metropolitan title for the last two years and runner-up in the recent United States championship, had a very close escape from relegation to the consolation flight at the hands and clubs of Mrs. A. B. Harrison, of Buffalo. They went to the home hole all square. Mrs. Harrison was fifteen yards short of the green with her drive, while Miss Orcutt was on the back. The former played about nine feet away in two and after Miss Orcutt had placed her approach putt for the half and ended the match.

WESTERN CHAMP PRESSED

Another match that was decided on the home hole was that in which Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, Western United States champion, advanced at the expense of Miss Ruth Ann Perry, of Philadelphia.

Needing to practically sink her approach to square the match, Miss Perry looked up and moved her ball only a few feet. She was off the line with her putt and conceded the match and the hole.

The only Canadian victory in the international series was registered at the eighteenth, a stroke preventing Mrs. John Arns, Chicago, to sink her putt for a half and to prolong her match against Miss Helen Paget, of Ottawa, last year's runner-up. The pair were close all the way.

Miss Glenna Collett and Miss Helen Payson, the two leaders in the qualifying rounds who are at opposite ends of the draw, both won seven and five, against Miss Ellen Kinsella, of Senneville, and Mrs. W. G. Moore, of Toronto. Both were out in 40, sharing the honors for the first nine holes with Miss Dora Virtue, of Whitlock, who defeated Miss Effie Nesbitt, of Hamilton, six and four. All three players were straight down the line and the Canadians did not suffer in comparison with the Americans' style.

Good Hunting

SOMENOS, Oct. 4.—A hunting party from Ladysmith was very successful on a trip up Mt. Slicker last Saturday. The bag included a large black bear and two deer. Hunting on that mountain has been very good this season.

COURTESY, Oct. 4.—Lady Luck

dodged the footsteps of at least one local hunter over the week-end. Mr. Len Roberts was hunting near Campbell River on Sunday, when he came across a forked buck, which offered a not very hard target—but Roberts registered a clean miss. The hunter sat down on a log to bemoan his luck when, out into the open not twenty feet away, stepped a yearling female cougar. With $40 in sight, Roberts made sure of his aim this time, and there was one live cougar less in the woods.

BRITISH PARTY BIG GUNS OPEN

MR. MACDONALD ATTACKS
FLAUNTING WEALTH AND PAGANISM OF LIVING

Premier Baldwin to Speak Thursday at Cardiff Convention of Conservatives

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The big guns of the Conservatives and Laborites are booming at Blackpool and Cardiff this week in political manoeuvres which may lead to a British general election in 1928.

Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier, opened Labor's offensive at Blackpool with a hot attack on the "wealth that is being flaunted as it was never flaunted before," and on the "paganism of living," which he declares would lead Great Britain to ruin as it did ancient Rome.

On Thursday, Premier Baldwin will answer MacDonald from Cardiff, where Conservative delegates are gathering. Outlining the Government's programme for the coming session of Parliament, the Premier is expected to settle once and for all Britain's great controversial political questions of the moment—the reform of the House of Lords, and how old a woman must be before she can vote.

Labor's new battle cry is "On with the surtax." The surtax replaces the ill-fated capital levy, which Labor sponsored at the last election. The project calls for a graduated surtax beginning with two shillings per pound upon all incomes from property and investments over £500 annually. It expects to yield £85,000,000 annually, and it is intended to abolish taxes on the necessities of life and reduce Great Britain's enormous national debt.

Macaulay Point Golf

Frank Whitford won the men's medal competition at the Macaulay Point Golf Club on Sunday. His gross score was 85, which with a handicap of 22, left him with a net score of 63.

Tom Angus completed the round in 78, but his handicap of 17 left him with a net of 66, which placed him second.

J. G. Smart, A. Roberts and C. L. Campbell tied for third place with net scores of 67, and G. Palmer and W. S. Morris finished with 68's. There were twenty entries.

NORTH SAANICH CLUB HAS SOCIAL EVENING

Social Organization Starts Lending Library—Concert to Be Arranged

The North Saanich Social Club held its regular weekly card party and social evening in the club-rooms, School Crossroad, on Saturday night. There was a good turnout of members and their friends and members of sister social clubs, all of whom spent a most enjoyable time at progressive five hundred, which was played at thirteen tables. The ladies' first prize was presented to Mrs. John Peck, who won the cut from Mrs. B. Readings and Mrs. C. Wilson, and the gentlemen's went to Master Peter Ricketts. At the conclusion of the game the supper committee served dainty refreshments and the remainder of the evening passed pleasantly at dancing, the music being efficiently supplied by Miss Florence Hambley and Mr. W. Boshier. On Saturday afternoon the Ladies' Auxiliary conducted a very successful paper chase for children of club members under twelve years of age. About fifteen children assembled at the clubhouse and enjoyed an hour and half's cross-country run, the hares finishing in fine style. Refreshments were served to them by the ladies, who are enthusiastic in urging the children to take part in these events, realizing the great benefits to be derived from this form of exercise.

The club has added this season a lending library, which is in charge of Mrs. C. Sansbury. Every member who donates a book is entitled to obtain one book each week to read. The number of books received already is steadily growing, and the library promises to become a very popular part of the club's interests.

On Trafalgar Day the club proposes to hold a naval concert, followed by a dance. The concert will take place on the quarterdeck of H.M.S. Victory, and will be composed of both local and Victoria talent. The North Saanich concerts have proved very popular functions during past seasons, and this event is being looked forward to with much enthusiasm by concert-going audiences.
